

Art for Kids wins city grant

The city of Sedona has awarded a grant to Art for Kids. The money will be used for an eight-week, after-school, visual fine art program for children from kindergarten to eighth grade, "Expressions of the Southwest."

Using clay, pastels, acrylics and oils, students will create projects that reflect the beauty and diversity of the Southwest culture, landscape and people.

Following the program will be a spring gallery event.

Tuition will be on a sliding scale according to financial need. Registration will open mid-January.

For more information, visit www.artforkidssedona.com.

A SUN FACE KACHINA painting created at Art for Kids by Ashley, a pre-kindergartener.

Courtesy photos

FORREST HARTLEY, a first-grader, enjoys color exploration at Art for Kids.